Ex-Chapleauite killed in accident

An early morning vehicle collision near Ottawa claimed the life of a North Bay man who was a bystander to the accident. John Dunne, 47 of North Bay, was an employee of the Ottawa Valley Railway and had been stationed at OVR's Smith's Falls office.

On Wednesday morning, he was doing repairs to a rail car north of Carleton Place, Ont., on the west shoulder of County Road 29 when a Subaru travelling southbound struck the protruding track of a bulldozer on the flatbed of a northbound Cavanagh tractor-trailer. The collision, which occurred at 6:45 a.m., ripped the driver's side of the passenger car off and then sent the Subaru off the road and into Dunne. He died at the scene.

Dunne leaves two children, his youngest daughter, Holly, is seven years old.

"This is truly a tragedy for John's family and his co-workers. He was a young man with a young family and he was a very family oriented person. When someone of that nature passes away, it makes it all the more difficult to accept," said Daryl Duquette, rail traffic control manager for OVR. "We're truly saddened by the loss." County Road 29 was closed for seven hours while police investigated the crash.

The driver of the southbound Subaru car, a 59-year-old Almonte, Ont., man sustained serious non-life threatening injuries.

He was initially transported to the Carleton Place Hospital, but later transferred to the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

The driver of the northbound tractor-trailer, a 58-year-old Ashton, Ont. man was not hurt.

OVR, Transport Canada, and the Transportation Safety Board are investigating the accident.

REPORT FROM Queen's Park BY Mike Brown,
 Provincial Member of Parliament for Algoma-Manitoulin

"Seatbelts save lives" is a popular catch phrase, and with good reason: since seatbelts were made mandatory, the number of people killed and injured in collisions in Ontario has steadily dropped.

On December 1, 2006, it became mandatory that every person travelling in a motor vehicle must wear a seatbelt or use a child safety seat. The penalty for seat belt infractions is a fine between $60 and $500, and convicted offenders stand to lose two demerit points. It is also important to note that drivers are responsible for ensuring that passengers under 16 years of age are using their seat belt or child safety seat.

The sharing of seatbelts is not permissible; only one person per belt. A typical seatbelt consists of a lap and shoulder belt, and the shoulder belt should be worn firmly to the body. The shoulder strap should never be placed under the arm, and the lap belt should be firm against the body and low across the hips. It is also important to remember that air bags do not take the place of a seat belt.

Children can start wearing seatbelts once they fulfill one of three criteria: the child has reached eight years of age, the child weighs under 80 pounds, or the child is four feet nine inches tall. If a child does not meet any of the above mentioned criteria, then a booster seat or child safety seat is mandatory.

When it comes to child safety seats, there are three types of seats to use, and knowing when to use each type is crucial to reduce the risk of injury or death to your child in the event of an accident. Rear-facing seats are required by law for children weighing less than 20 pounds. Forward-facing seats are required by law for children weighing between 20 to 40 pounds, while the booster seat is required for those children under the age of eight, and weighing between 40 to 80 pounds. It should also be noted that the middle of the child's ear should not be above the back of the vehicle seat, head rest or booster seat.

When installing a child safety seat, ensure that the seat is secured tightly, using your body weight to tighten and fasten the belt. There should be no more than one inch of movement of the seat from side to side or forward. With forward-facing seats, a tether strap must be used. The hook is designed to attach the strap to the tether anchorage on the vehicle, as specified by the manufacturer.

All new Canadian vehicles manufactured after September 1, 2002 come with lower universal anchorage points. Consult the vehicle owner's manual before using the UAS system LATCH to determine where the anchorage points are located, and ensure that the correct method is used as advised by the car seat manufacturer. Locking clips may be required to secure a child car safety seat in a vehicle. The vehicle owner's manual will indicate if one is required. If so, install the locking clip on the seatbelt within a half an inch of the latch plate.

When it comes to the safety harness, the requirements differ based on the type of seat. For rear-facing safety seats, the harness strap should sit at or below the child's shoulders. For front-facing seats, the harness should sit at or above the child's shoulders. In either case, ensure that the harness is snug enough on your child's chest to allow only one finger width between the strap and the child's collarbone. Ensure that the harness straps lie flat and they do not twist or fold. Properly adjust the chest clips on the harness, and ensure that they lie flat against the chest at armpit level.

Always install child car safety seats away from an active airbag. Also be aware that rear-facing child safety seats have a recline position that must be used. If necessary, use rolled towel or a foam bar under the base of the seat to adjust the angle to 45 degrees.

Booster seats are designed to raise a child up so that the adult seatbelt works more effectively. A lap and shoulder belt combination must be used.

The shoulder strap must lie across your child's shoulder and the middle of their chest, not around their neck or face, and the lap belt must cross low over the hips, not the stomach or abdomen. Never use seatbelt adjusters.

One final tip: be sure that the child safety seat that you have has a Canadian Motor Vehicle Safety Standard (CMVSS) label or a Statement of Compliance label.

CRDC holds annual General Meeting

The Chapleau Regional Development Corporation (CRDC), at the annual general meeting held on March 21, reported on the many initiatives it has undertaken on behalf of the community and renewed its commitment to promoting and facilitating economic development in the Chapleau area.

The CRDC, which has the role of the Chamber of Commerce, represents the various players of Chapleau business in the manufacturing, tourism, forestry, and retail sectors. Since the last municipal election and the creation by Council of the Chapleau Economic Renewal Committee (CERC), the CRDC is no longer funded by the township. However, Council has provided letters of support for project specific activities. The membership was presented with an update on current activities, which include non-timber forest products (NTFPs) such as nutraceuticals, wild blueberry production, and cottage development.

Nutraceuticals are medications or food supplements that are created from naturally occurring plants. Dr. Luc Duchesne, a world-renowned expert in the field, will assist the CRDC with these projects. Opportunities exist to harvest NTFPs locally, which could be manufactured for medicinal products and sold worldwide, creating several full-time and seasonal positions.

Wild blueberry production is another exciting initiative of the CRDC. After visiting the Lac St. Jean region in Quebec, important factors such as terrain, soil type, plant diversity, and climate were identified as similar to ours. Blueberries are in high demand all over the world and a local operation has the potential to create jobs as well as bring much-needed dollars to our localeconomy.

Another ambitious CRDC initiative is the Cottage Lot Development project. This would see the construction of cottages on private land on nearby lakes. These cottages would be built using a "Condo" concept, which means that the cottage owners would be responsible for costs associated with road maintenance and sewers. The construction of these cottages would result in a seasonal increase in population, the utilization of our local work force, and a long awaited boost to our local economy.

The CRDC also took the lead on an application to the Natural Resources Canada - Forest Communities Program. This program provides funding to assist communities transition their economies from the standard forestry to a bio-economy. The application was done in a partnership with other Northern communities. Successful applicants are to be announced in the near future.

A major focus of the CRDC tourism program has been promoting the Chapleau Crown Game Preserve. The successful campaign to establish Chapleau as the Gateway to the preserve, the erection of wildlife viewing stations and walking trails, as well as the billboards mounted on major highways resulted in a 500% increase in calls to the 1-800 number requesting brochures and materials. The lack of municipal funding and the decision to allow First Nation hunting in the Preserve may affect the future of what has been a successful initiative for Chapleau. Unfortunately, without the continuation of municipal funding, the CRDC can no longer employ a Tourism Coordinator/Biologist.

Elections were held and the slate of Directors is as follows:

Past Chair:
Richard Bignucolo
Chair:

Michel Sylvestre
Vice Chair:
Mel Jone
Treasurer:
Les Jones
Secretary:
Tanya Kessler

Directors at large:
Lucy Bignucolo, Rick Korpela, Roxann Lynn, Karen Pederson, and Ryan Saari.

Ross Broomhead was thanked for his many years of service on the executive. He stated that he would continue to be an enthusiastic supporter of the CRDC.

As Chapleau adjusts to the loss of employment in the forestry sector, the community is well served by the dedication of the CRDC members to continue to pursue new initiatives for the future of our town.

Members may be contacted for further details on the projects presented.

Input from citizens is always welcome and appreciated.

Superior East Community Futures Development Corporation Small Business make a Big Impact in our Communities

The Superior East CFDC, through our internship program, conducted a survey to determine how our clients felt about the programs and services being offered at the CFDC. The client survey also examined the viability of small business in the region, the economic impact of the CFDC clients and local business contributions in support of community events.

Through our study it became very clear that CFDC clients, who are a good proxy for the overall business community, are significant contributors to the social and economic well being of our communities. They contribute through the creation of jobs (271 from our sample of 36), contributions through taxes to all levels of government (estimated $5 million annually) and their positive impact on our quality of life through their contributions to community activities and charities. Some of the highlights from the survey included:

- Over 90 percent stated that they support their community before shopping out of town.
- Eighty percent of respondents advised that in the past year they had contributed to local events and activities. Contributions were financial and often through donated services and supplies.
- Eighty-one percent of all respondents advised that they would not be in business without the financial support received from Superior East CFDC.

The Superior East CFDC has always been proud of its association with the businesses in our region. We are also thankful for the support that is provided by FedNor to our Investment Fund and other economic development activities. From our study however, it is also clear that the businesses within the region are currently facing a number obstacles. An alarming, 28% of all respondents felt that unless their situation improved in the near future they would be forced to close their doors. The loss of any business represents a reversal of all the community benefits identified in the study.

If you would like information on the services and programs offered at Superior East CFDC regarding small business loans or community economic development or would like a complete copy of the Client Survey findings please contact Melanie Maurice, Research Assistant at 705.856.1105 or toll free at 1.800.387.5776.

Vegetables and Fruit: Canada's Food Guide has a new star

By Cynthia Colapinto, Public Health Nutritionist

Canada's Food Guide has been revised, and vegetables and fruit are in the forefront.

Health Canada recognized the importance of the vegetable and fruit group by moving this food group to the highest arc in the food guide rainbow. Vegetables and fruit are high in vitamins, minerals and fibre, which reduce the risk of heart disease and certain types of cancer. How much you need varies with your age, gender and activity level. For example, it is recommended that a three-year-old child has four servings each day, whereas an adult male should aim for 10 servings a day.

You may wonder how anyone can get a daily dose of 10 servings. A closer look at this food group will take away a lot of the mystery. The effort is worthwhile when you consider the benefits for your health.

A serving is not as big as you may think. When you look at the definition of a serving size of vegetables and fruit in Canada's Food Guide, you'll see it ranges from ½ cup of canned vegetables to one cup of raw spinach to ½ cup of fresh fruit or ¼ cup of dried fruit. Fresh, frozen, canned or dried, all vegetables and fruit contribute to a healthy diet.

Consider how these servings add up. If you're making a stir fry and you use 1 cup of mixed, fresh vegetables and add ½ cup of frozen broccoli that is three servings of vegetables. Mix up one cup of assorted fresh and frozen fruit to make a summer salad and get two servings of fruit.

Health Canada promotes a few important messages related to vegetables and fruit.

- Eat at least one dark green and one orange vegetable each day.
- Paint your plate with colourful vegetables and fruit at every meal and snack, whether you're at home, school, work or eating out.
- Stir-fry broccoli, snow peas, red peppers and carrots.
- Consider buying packages of pre-washed and pre-bagged vegetables such as baby carrots, leafy greens or broccoli. You can quickly toss these into a salad, stir-fry or casserole.
- Choose vegetables and fruit prepared with little or no added fat, sugar or salt.
- Enjoy vegetables steamed, baked or stir fried instead of deep-fried.
- Toss chopped vegetables with a small amount of olive oil and bake.
- Look for lower sodium canned vegetables.
- Look for canned fruit packed in fruit juice and with no added sugar (unsweetened).
- Have vegetables and fruit more often than juice.
- Choose 100% fruit or vegetable juice. Anything called "punch", "fruit drink", "beverage" or "cocktail" may contain little or no real juice. -One serving is only ½ cup. -Vegetables and fruit have more fibre and other nutrients than juice. Enjoy vegetables and fruit as a family. Your children will be more likely to try and enjoy different vegetables and fruit if they see you eating them. Role model healthy eating habits for your children to help build good habits that can last a lifetime. For more information about Canada's Food Guide or adding vegetables and fruit contact the Sudbury & District Health Unit at 864-1610.

Chapleau - Nemegosenda

Notice of Completion, Opportunity to Inspect the Final Environmental Study Report

The Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) Ontario Parks invites inspection of the Final Environmental Study Report (ESR) for a proposal to undertake the construction of a Private Forest Access Road through P-1546 addition to Chapleau-Nemegosenda Provincial Park to access wood resources on private land. Private Forest Company Scierie Landrienne Inc., as a first choice, has requested to build an 820-meter all weather gravel road in D'Arcy Township. The road will be used solely for access to perform forest management activities over the next 20 years. To prevent unauthorized access gates and/or berms, and/or signs will be used to control vehicular traffic.

Public consultations have occurred in April 2006, August 2006 and February 2007 to obtain public response to all the road options to access the private land. As per the 2005 Class Environmental Assessment for Provincial Parks and Conservation Reserves (Class EA) the Final ESR for the road has now been completed, as required for a Category C project. The final ESR describes the process for evaluating the environmental effects of the road options and the process for the selection of the preferred location through the park.

To obtain the Final ESR (a copy may be included with the mailed version of the notice), to discuss the project, to provide comments or to inspect the project file during normal office hours, please contact:

Park Superintendent

Tel. (705) 864-3114
Fax. (705) 864-0681

If there are concerns about this project that cannot be resolved in discussion with MNR, interested parties may request the Minister of Environment to issue a Part II Order requiring an individual environmental assessment under the Environmental assessment Act. For information on what a Part II Order request should contain, consult the Class EA. Requests must be received by the Minister of the Environment within the 30 day period, which expires May 15, 2006, and copied at the same time to MNR at the above address. The address of the Minister of the Environment is: 135 St. Clair Avenue West, 10 th Floor, Toronto, ON M4V 1P5.

Interested parties are strongly encouraged to discuss any concerns with the MNR before requesting an individual environmental assessment. If no request is received within the 30 day period, or if a request is successfully resolved, MNR may proceed to implement the project without further public notice.

This information is being collected for the purpose of planning and implementing a Class EA project for a provincial or conservation reserve in accordance with the Environmental Assessment Act, the Provincial Parks Act and the Public Lands Act. Canadians love Caesar

Yes, the abidingly popular salad, a blend of fresh Romaine, Parmesan cheese, and crunchy croutons dressed in garlicky, lemon-egg vinaigrette, is a favourite whether dining out or at home.

According to NPD Canada, the research company tracking restaurant sales-trends nationwide, Caesar salad consumption is up 300%. In 1996, the Caesar salad represented only 8% of all salads consumed in Canadian restaurants. By the end of 2006, Caesar consumption rose to 22% of restaurant salads.

From the earliest days after its creation in the Roaring Twenties the Caesar salad was a pop cultural hit. Hollywood power brokers and stars like Jean Harlow, Clark Gable, Carole Lombard, W.C. Fields and Douglas Fairbanks, Sr. frequented Caesar's Place, a hotspot in Tijuana, Mexico, where the salad was born. These and other enthusiastic fans of the salad were responsible for singing its praises and getting it on the menus of great restaurants north of the Mexican border. Even Julia Child reminisces in her cookbooks of a family trip down to Tijuana as a child in "1925 or 1926" to investigate the new dish everyone was raving about.

The Caesar Salad was always a best seller on the menus at the restaurants owned by Doug and Linda Woolsey. In the 70s and 80s, the couple owned a series of popular Toronto-area eateries, including North America's first Hard Rock Café. At the request of their customers, they found themselves putting the ingredients for a foolproof Caesar salad into individual coffee cups for them to take home. Before they knew it, they were introducing the first salad kit to the marketplace.

"To many, the Caesar salad is a favourite food more than just a favourite salad," says Linda Woolsey, who heads up the product development department at Linsey Foods, maker of ET TU Salad Kits. "It is a dish for all seasons, since its ingredients, including Romaine lettuce, are available year-round, and it offers a great culinary canvas with which to improvise and create - much like a pasta or pizza."

Here in Canada, the Caesar salad is often enjoyed with the inclusion of real crumbled bacon, but that is just the beginning of the possibilities. Linda Woolsey shares this delicious recipe (below), to usher in salad season, and invites you to visit ettucaesar.com for more great recipes and information.

LE PROCESSUS

L'étude respecte le processus de planification approuvé pour les projets de groupe « B » en vertu de l'Évaluation environnementale de portée générale pour les installations provinciales de transport (2000), permettant au public de se prononcer tout au long de ce processus. Au terme de cette étape, un rapport « Transportation Environmental Study Report (TESR) » sera mis à la disposition du public pour examen et commentaire. Un autre avis sera publié à ce moment. Vous pouvez également demander à ce que le projet fasse l'objet d'une évaluation environnementale individuelle. La décision repose entre les mains du ministre de l'Environnement.

Children's Aid Societies are addressing the Auditor General's recommendations

TORONTO, April 4 /CNW/ - Ontario's Children's Aid Societies have developed policies and measures to address each of the 20 recommendations made by Ontario's Auditor General in his first-ever value-for-money audit of four of the province's 53 Children's Aid Societies, the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies (OACAS) announced today.

"Ontario's Children's Aid Societies have acted in a responsible and accountable manner to address the Auditor's recommendations," said Dennis Nolan, President of the OACAS. "Our member agencies are working hard to change their administration practices without compromising the quality of service offered to thousands of vulnerable families and children."

When the report was released last fall, Children's Aid Societies (CASs) formed working groups to review each recommendation and develop solutions.

CASs are currently updating their policies in the areas of purchasing, procurement, fleet management, travel and hospitality expenses. These policies are being implemented concurrently with other directives, standards, guidelines and reporting requirements from the Ministry of Children and Youth Services as part of the Transformation Agenda.

"The field has worked hard to identify and disseminate best practices for delivery of high-quality child welfare services, for prudent management of resources, and for public accountability," said Jeanette Lewis, Executive Director of the OACAS.

"However, too many layers of administration and standards may compromise the amount of time workers spend trying to help children and families."

The Transformation Agenda is a massive change in child welfare service delivery, supported throughout the children's service system in Ontario. Major changes are being implemented beginning in April 2007 in the areas of differential response (a more child-family-centered approach: the right service at the right time), better permanency planning (including kinship and foster care, adoption, custody arrangements), and alternatives to court processes (mediation, talking circles). This approach will be supported by research, information systems and an outcomes approach to accountability. The Transformation Agenda also includes special Aboriginal provisions for Aboriginal and First Nations children to be served by their own communities.

"Our member agencies are embracing these changes, but need public support and confidence in the work they do to protect our children," said Lewis.

"Child protection workers play a vital role in our society. Much like police officers, firefighters and doctors, they protect and save lives by helping vulnerable children."

Children's Aid Societies rely on professionals and members of the community to report child abuse or neglect. It is important that the public trusts CASs and have faith in their ability to help children and families - this could be hard to achieve in the face of frequent and inaccurate messaging and lack of support.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT NOTICE

COMMENCEMENT OF STUDY Resurfacing of Highway 101 for 39.3 km Highway 651 Easterly to West Lawson Lake Culvert

THE PROJECT

Engineering Northwest Ltd., on behalf of the Ministry of Transportation (MTO), has initiated a Detail Design study for the rehabilitation of Highway 101 from 2.2 km west of Hwy. 651, easterly for 39.3 km to 0.3 km west of Lawson Lake culvert (GWP 324-97-00). The purpose of the study is to improve the overall ride, safety and operational characteristics of Highway 101 within the study limits.

The following improvements are being investigated:

- Regrading and resurfacing of the highway with hot mix asphalt
- One new snowplough turnaround within the limits of The Shoals Provincial Park
- Culvert replacements. Single lane of traffic will be maintained during construction by way of traffic staging operations or use of minor detours
- Ditch and culvert cleanouts
- Rockfall hazard treatments
- Truck pull-off locations
- Measures to lessen moose presence adjacent to the highway

THE PROCESS

This study is following the approved planning process for Group 'B' projects under the Class Environmental Assessment for Provincial Transportation Facilities (2000) with the opportunity for public input throughout. Upon completion of the study, a Transportation Environmental Study Report (TESR) will be made available for public review and comment. Another notice will be published at that time. You may also request that this project be conducted as an Individual Environmental Assessment. The decision rests with the Minister of the Environment.

McGuinty Government Takes Action To Protect Province's Water Introduces Legislation That Would Ban Water Diversions; Implement Conservation Charges

TORONTO, April 3 / C N W / - The McGuinty government is protecting provincial water resources for future generations through the introduction of ground-breaking legislation, Environment Minister Laurel Broten and Natural Resources Minister David Ramsay announced today.

The proposed legislation contains two key ideas: enshrining in law a historic agreement that bans diversions from the Great Lakes, and mandating charges for commercial and industrial users for the water they take and use.

"By enacting the terms of this agreement, we are taking a major step forward in conserving and protecting the waters of the Great Lakes Basin for future generations of Ontarians," said Ramsay. "If passed, the legislation would strengthen the ban on diversions, promote water conservation, reinforce basin-wide environmental standards, and improve science-based decision-making."

"For the first time in this province, we are proposing to charge the large commercial users of water," said Broten. "Today we're sending the message that businesses that benefit from our precious water resources must contribute their fair share toward the costs of managing them."

The Safeguarding and Sustaining Ontario's Water Act, would implement the historic Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River Basin Sustainable

Water Resources Agreement, signed by Ontario, Quebec and the eight Great Lake U.S. states in December 2005. The province's existing ban on diversions of water out of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River, Nelson and Hudson Bay basins would become law under the act. It would also prohibit new or increased diversions of water from one Great Lake watershed to another, subject to strictly regulated exceptions.

Also proposed are measures that would allow the province, following consultation with stakeholders, to charge commercial and industrial users for the water they take and use. Revenue would be used to cover a portion of the province's costs of managing water resources.

The proposed act will be available on the Environmental Registry for public comment later today at ontario.ca/environmentalregistry. Also posted for public comment is a discussion paper on a framework for water conservation charges.

"Our government takes our stewardship of the Great Lakes and Ontario's valuable water resources seriously," said Broten. "We are acting decisively to ensure Ontario's water is among the best protected in the world."

Proposing stronger protection for Great Lakes Basin waters and all of Ontario's water resources is just one way the McGuinty government is working to ensure a healthy natural environment in Ontario. Other examples include:

- Passing the Clean Water Act to ensure communities identify potential risks to local water sources and take action to reduce or eliminate risks.

- Renewing the commitment to work co-operatively with the federal government to improve and protect the health of the Great Lakes Basin ecosystem.

- Launching Ontario's first biodiversity strategy to protect the province's plants and wildlife and the habitats that support them.

These reforms to the Ontario Water Resources Acts are long overdue. These steps will move Ontario and the Great Lakes Region away from destructive water wasting practices to sound conservation practices. Living within the natural water budget given to us is crucial to sustaining water resources for current and future generations.

Sarah Miller, Coordinator and Water Policy Researcher, Canadian Environmental Law Association

Molson is proud of our environmental record and we salute the Government of Ontario on this proactive and balanced initiative that will help protect Ontario's water resources for generations to come.

Water conservation charges will ensure that commercial and industrial water takers who use water for profit will now be contributing their share to Ontario's management of our exceptional water resources.
