Chapleau Figure Skating Club continues history making success

Submitted
For their first trip to the Provincial Qualifiers in Sault Ste. Marie, Brittaney Pilon and Breanna Morin were in a group of 31 skaters at the Pre-Preliminary level. They skated to respectfull 13th and

9th place finish. Jessica Dionne and Tiffany Card skated at the Preliminary level with a total of 39 skaters they placed 9th and 7th, respectfully. Melissa Lafrance competed in the Junior Bronze event and was able to capture a 7th place finish in a field of 41 skaters in total. Alica Canning placed 4th in Junior Silver out of 24 skaters and this allowed her to skate the finals where she finished 6th overall. Arlayna Morin skated an excellent freeskate program and finished 3rd overall in the Senior Silver event which qualifies her for the Provincial Championships in Waterloo, March 13-15th, 2009. This is the second time Arlayna has qualified for provincials. She will now move on to skate against the best Senior Silver skaters in the province, giving her a Provincial ranking of no less than 12th in the Province.

Arlayna and Alicia also competed in the Silver Triathlon event. There are three disciplines that the girls must compete in and the total score then determines their placing. Arlayna placed 4th overall and Alicia was able to capture the Gold medal. This now qualifies her for the National Starskate Championships in Fredericton, New Brunswick on April 2-5, 2009. Although we have in the past been fortunate enough to send skaters to Provincials, (Arlayna Morin, Alicia Canning, Veronique Cloutier) this is the first time ever we have had a skater qualify for Nationals. Not only did she win her event she posted the second highest score across Canada. She will now advance to Fredericton to compete against the first place finisher from each of the provinces and territories. This gives Alicia a National ranking of no less than 12th best in her category from all of Canada. WAY TO GO. We wish you both the best of luck in Waterloo and Fredericton. We would also like to thank you for all your hard work and for the great way you have represented the Community of Chapleau and the Chapleau Figure Skating Club.

Big changes that will have an effect on those who enjoy our waterways been included in the February 6th, Budget Implementation Act. These will have very serious and long-term consequences for Canadian waterways and all those who enjoy them. In Canada, we have a long history that is inseparable from navigable waters and have set about protecting these common spaces against both environmental degradation and access-limiting development.

Arguably, we have done a pretty good job of that. Yet changes to regulations, that will give far too much power to the Minister of Transport, and open the door to unfettered development, severely threaten our heritage and preservation work. Once implemented, these changes will be difficult to reverse, as will much of the work and degradation they will allow.

This same Act was already in parliament before the election took place in October and has been brought back. In the lead up to the prior legislation, the government was only listening to its friends and not all stakeholders. That tradition continues. There were no consultations with First Nations, paddling organizations, outdoor tourism groups, cottage associations, river advocacy groups, or anglers and hunters. All of these are people who should be consulted when major changes to the way we manage and protect Canadian waters are being debated. Instead, the government is plowing ahead with the amendments their friends want made, and will likely brand all those who oppose them as 'special interest groups'.

The proposed changes to the act will alter the definition of what constitutes a navigable waterway, currently seen as any body of water a canoe can float in, to those waters deemed navigable by the Minister of Transport.

The remaining waters will no longer fall under the protection of the act. The Minister will also have sole discretion as to whether a project will have an impact on navigation. The act will also remove four named works from the Act, bridges, booms, dams, and causeways, all added in 1983 because of their inherent effect on navigation. This leaves the majority of power and decision making about complex environmental and accessibility issues in the hands of the Minister.

This still might not seem like such a big threat. Most

Chapleaus' Ross Hryhorchuk receives 2009 Ontario Coaching Excellence Award

Submitted

The Coaches Association of Ontario this past weekend honoured nine outstanding coaches from all levels of sport at the 2009 Coaching Excellence Awards Ceremony in Richmond Hill. Over 230 coaches and sport administrators from a variety of sports including recreation, high performance, developmental, volunteer, and high school sports (OFSAA) gathered at the annual conference.

The awards ceremony was the crown jewel of the conference, and an opportunity for top coaches to be honoured by their peers for their ongoing and significant contributions they make to both their sports and athletes.

Local principal and former teacher, Chapleaus' own Ross Hryhorchuk, was honoured at this conference and received the Ontario Coaching Excellence Award for the year 2008 in the High School Sport Category. This is a provincial award given to one male and one female recipient. As quoted from the OFSAA committee during the selection period....."you truly are a leader in all aspects of high school sports and someone who is a role model for all coaches in the province. The committee's vote was unanimous, and on behalf of OFSAA, I congratulate you for this award and thank you for your contribution to the young people of Ontario."

Ross has been instrumental in organizing sports, policies and procedures for our NSSSAA league which extends from Chapleau to Thunder Bay. He has also been involved in coaching for over 41 years in a variety of sports such as gymnastics, wrestling, cross-country running, badminton, volleyball, basketball, and soccer. Ross has spent countless hours coaching many generations of students in our community. It's an honour to have in our community a recipient of this award and special thanks are extended for your many years of mentoring, refereeing, and coaching. Ross has touched so many lives in the community of Chapleau and across the north.

"We're so proud of all our award recipients and the positive impact they have on the Ontario sport community and their respective communities," says Susan Kitchen,

Common Myths Busted!

Dietitians of Canada's National Nutrition Month® 2009 focuses on nutrition and healthy eating for active lifestyles. Check out these myths and our fact busting answers! Dietitians are your trusted source for nutrition and healthy eating advice.

Myth: I need a special diet and sports supplements now that I'm exercising regularly.
BUSTED! For your active lifestyle, focus on tasty and healthy food. Follow Eating Well with Canada's Food Guide (at www.myfoodguide.ca) to get the energy and vitamins & minerals needed for your active lifestyle!
 • Vegetables & Fruit, Grain Products and

Milk & Alternatives provide carbohydrates to fuel active muscles. Milk & Alternatives and Meat & Alternatives provide high quality protein to build and repair muscles. • Foods from all four food groups provide vitamins and minerals which help turn food into energy your body can use, build strong bones and muscles, and ward off infection. If you are very active you may need to eat more servings from each of the food groups. (Competitive athletes should see a Registered Dietitian as they may have special nutrient needs).
 • Products like stimulants, muscle building or weight loss supplements are not needed to get the most out of your activity or to gain muscle or lose weight.
Myth: You need to drink as much water as you possibly can before, during and after exercise to perform your best. BUSTED! Think gulps not gallons! We all need water, but don't overdo it. While dehydration (not enough water) during exercise is more common than drinking too much, occasionally some people have developed a serious condition known as hyponatremia (low blood sodium) from drinking way too much. A safe game plan is:

 • Stay hydrated day to day. Water, milk, soy beverages, 100% juice, and even tea, coffee, and some foods all count.
 • During exercise, drink to help replace water lost in sweat. How much? There's no 'one size fits all' answer as we all sweat at different rates. Keep water handy and sip it during your workout. When you're sweating heavily or it is hot, drink more.

• After exercise, regular meals, snacks and beverages will help replace what you have lost in sweat. Enjoy a glass of water or chocolate milk after your workout. Have an apple with some cheese for a snack. If it is meal time try a recipe from Dietitians of Canada's Simply Great Food cookbook such as Jerk Chicken Salad served up with a Mango Lassi to drink. Check out www.dietitians.ca/eatwell for the recipes!
Myth: It is cold outside. I don't need to worry about hydration during winter activities or sports.
BUSTED! Sure it is cold but you can still sweat up a storm under all that warm hockey equipment and piles of winter clothing. Sweat needs to evaporate to help cool the body. When it can't (because of clothes or sports gear) the body heats up making us sweat more. So remember, even in cold conditions keep fluids handy so they are easy to grab and sip before, during and after activity.
Myth: Downing an "energy drink" on the way to the gym is the best way to keep your energy levels up for a workout.
BUSTED! Healthy eating and enough sleep are the real keys to long-lasting energy to get you through your day and your workout!
 • If you are running out of energy, consider how long it has been since you've had something to eat or drink. A glass of water with a small meal or healthy snack a couple of hours before your workout can give you a real boost. Try a peanut butter sandwich on whole grain bread and a banana.

 • Energy drinks are not sports drinks. Sports drinks are designed for rapid rehydration and refuelling during exercise. However, the high sugar levels and fizz (carbonation) in energy drinks can make it hard to drink enough to stay well hydrated during a workout.
 • The caffeine in energy drinks is usually more than double that in soft drinks. Caffeine makes you alert for a short time but tends to be followed by feelings of low energy. Too much caffeine can also get in the way of a good night's sleep.

 • The safety of energy drinks is also in question. It is not known if ingredients like taurine and glucuronolactone are safe, especially when mixed with caffeine.
Fact: The best source for nutrition information is a Registered Dietitian.
FACT! True indeed! This is no myth at all! The best source for nutrition information is a Registered Dietitian. It is best to consult a dietitian who can provide advice for your specific nutrition needs.
 Some dietitians are specialists in sports nutrition. To find a dietitian: visit www.dietitians.ca/find, ask your doctor for a referral, or call Dietitians of Canada Consulting Dietitians Network at 1-888-901-7776.

Imagine a day when snowmobilers can't ride Canada's major trail systems from one destination to another. Or at least, not without packing a lunch, carrying a sleeping bag and towing a toboggan loaded with fuel. Yes, we could be camping out because so many existing hospitality services may be closed.

Our trail systems were laid out so snowmobilers could access services and amenities en route. In many rural and northern areas, these stops are isolated communities and few-and-far-between outfitters.

But if these operations can't stay open, critical service gaps would appear in our trail systems. With spotty fuel, food and lodging availability, snowmobilers would have difficulty getting from here to there. As fewer tried, even more services would shut down.

Such closures are already happening. I'm aware of some already in Northern Ontario and others seem likely. If they continue, snowmobiling will only be possible in our relatively populated areas, where services tend to be more prolific. Ironically, many of these areas tend to suffer increasingly marginal snow conditions. So our next quandary may be not having enough snow where services exist, and not having enough services where there's good snow.

Why this predicament? Unpredictable weather continues to play a role. But Mother Nature has always been capricious since the birth of snowmobiling, we've had exceptional winters and been skunked too. Higher fuel prices also have an impact in limiting distances travelled.

But today, other factors are putting services catering to snowmobilers in even greater jeopardy... One culprit is the decline of resource industries in many small towns that are the links holding together our chain of snow-mobile trails. Many mines, mills and forestry operations have amalgamated, cut back, moved or closed down, hurting these one-industry communities. Frequently, the most affluent local snowmobilers were the ones now laid off or leaving town for other jobs. As a result, many local service businesses have become less viable.

What's more, in their interim report, Understanding Freefall: The Challenge of the Rural Poor, a Standing (Canadian) Senate Committee finds that "rural food banks are growing faster than those in the cities; seniors and children are going without food so bills get paid; 90% of farmers are relying on non-farm income; and villages are losing youth due to lack of jobs, high paying or otherwise." Although the report is only half complete and may not end up being quite as bleak sounding, these identified trends will doubtless make the survival of mom and pop services more difficult.

Another factor contributing to fewer services for snowmobilers is more fuel-efficient sleds. Snowmobiles capable of travelling extended distances on one tank are changing our travel patterns. We don't have to stop as often or in the same places. This can mean less business for some services, often ones most remote or already suffering from weakened economies. And what about the dramatic decrease in Americans?

According to recent tourism data, American visitation to Canada is down 34% the past five years. One indication that Yankee riders are also staying home is a continuing decline in the sale of "visitor permits" in Ontario. This U.S. absence is especially hard on businesses that service touring snowmobilers.

But there may be some hope this winter. Newfoundland post election optimism, lower fuel costs and a more attractive exchange rate may lure more riders north, despite economic concerns. After all, snowmobiling has proved to be a relatively recession-proof recreation...in previous downturns, both permit sales and ridership have remained comparatively strong and affluent American riders will still want to go riding somewhere.

Meanwhile, both the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs and Ontario tourism are actively encouraging Ontarians to do more snowmobiling...and do it in Ontario. What's more, we have a predisposition to winter and a well-developed snowmobiling product. We have tens of thousands of people looking for new outdoor family recreation activities and soft adventures. All they need is a little information and incentive to go snowmobiling.

Then maybe we can help keep those mom and pop hospitality services stay open each winter. Snowmobilers already spend an estimated $1.2 Billion annually in Ontario. We should be able to increase that figure by persuading even more of us to go ride. After all, who really wants to go winter camping?

Until next time, the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs invites you to Go Snowmobiling this winter. Get started at ofsc.on.ca

Phenomenal Women Time.....

By Pat Tangie

Well, here we are again.... time to take a good look within our homes and neighborhoods....time to recognize and honour the everyday, beautiful, women in our lives. Those women who encourage and motivate us as individuals so we can become the best we can be for ourselves and our community.

For the third consecutive year APANO's Community Wellness program and CHADWIC Home is providing you with the opportunity to let your "Phenomenal Women" know how much they mean to you.

Acknowledgement forms are available at most local merchants and public offices throughout town, including APANO's office at 8 Lorne Street North (next to the Post Office). Take a couple of minutes to fill them out and deposit your form in the boxes next to them by noon March 5, 2009. We will collect all acknowledgement forms and prepare a certificate for your Phenomenal Woman.

Experience has proven to us that she will be thrilled to bits when we call to invite you both to our Phenomenal Women's Social. The Social will be held at the Legion hall on Tuesday, March 10th between 7:00 – 9:00 pm.

This year, we also have an essay contest coinciding with our Social. We are hoping that women of all ages, young and old will write about bridging the Generation Gap from their perspectives. We want to hear their realities – their hopes and dreams, their worries and concerns – what it's like for them to live in the world at this time, at their age – and the creative ways they find to connect with other generations in their lives.

Three gifts of appreciation for essays of 250 words or less will be awarded from those received. A volunteer panel will determine who the gifts will go to, one in each category ages 11-14, ages 15-19, and ages 19 and over. Writers will be invited to read their works at the Social or, if they prefer, we can arrange to have them read.

So come on Chapleau....share your wealth....the great women in your lives .... and your talents as writers...we can't do this without you!

TASTE OF THE NORTH CARNIVAL

Who says winter is a gloomy and depressive season? Not up here in Chapleau. Last Monday students and staff from OUR LADY OF FATIMA had a fun filled afternoon with outdoor activities to close the week-long celebration of the town's Carnival. Smiley faces, pink cheeks and some numb hands were glad to have hot cocoa and cookies at the end of snow shoe races, broomball competition, and sliding down the big hill in front of the school. It was a great day!

Big changes that will have an effect on those who enjoy our waterways

 people see navigable waters as the domain of the big shipping lanes in the great lakes and not the smallish rivers that fish use to spawn in or paddlers enjoy on a Sunday afternoon. It will only be when things really start changing that people take notice, and by then it may be too late. A seemingly unimportant, small bridge can destroy a riffle that countless generations of pickerel have used to spawn in and wipe out a local population in a few short years. Bridges, dams, booms and causeways all need special attention to determine long-range effects as well as any benefits before proceeding. We have known this since at least 1983, and truthfully for much longer, what has changed? To date, there has been very little public interest about the changes to the Act. It is not the kind of issue that can compete with the big, splashy headlines surrounding the economic crisis, but it should. It cuts to the heart of our common bond, the rivers and lakes that connect our land. This is being pushed forward by the support of Liberals, under the guise of eliminating red tape and getting the economy back on track. The same goes for the removal of environmental impact assessment criteria for works under $10 million dollars. Both are budget measures that don't make sense to the average cottager, paddler, or anglers who had better get used to being referred to as special interest groups

Mike Brown, MPP, Algoma-Manitoulin, named Parliamentary assistant to Northern Development and Mines

in the North," said Brown. Parliamentary Assistants work alongside ministers in carrying out the government's agenda. They are often assigned special projects and develop policy proposals for the government. In the legislature, they represent their ministers during debate on government bills. "I am delighted that MPP Brown has been named Parliamentary Assistant," said Minister Gravelle. "Mike Brown brings a wealth of expertise, commitment and knowledge, and I look forward to working closely with him."

"This is a great honour. I look forward to this important role working with communities and industry to help build a sustainable economy

BIRDING CORNER

Chapleau is fortunate to have three types of woodpeckers at our feeders almost daily all winter long. The largest of the group is the pileated woodpecker at 18", bright red head and red moustache on the males. Mid size is the hairy at 9" and the downy at 6" are pretty much identical except for the size difference. All three come to the feeders for seeds and suet mixes. (Submitted by Bill Groves)
