Opposition to new school

By: R. Drew Blais

Opponents and supporters of new French high school square off in Council chambers. Mark Nyman made a presentation to Council about the proposed new High School. Nyman said that the current high school could be viewed as part of Chapleau's Heritage. In his letter to Council, Nyman states that Chapleau has protected this part of our heritage in past years by expanding Chapleau's secondary school to accommodate all students including Francophone, Anglophone, and bilingual students.

"Will Council allow 'Heritage' to be destroyed?" asked Nyman. "We have hopes that as elected municipal leaders you would facilitate a higher level of cooperation amongst our boards, keep our secondary students together, and sustain the heritage of our community."

Mayor Earle Freeborn told Nyman that those in favour of the new school didn't go to Council seeking support. He also said as far as putting a committee together to look at the situation, it is up to Nyman to form a committee or a forum to look at getting cooperation from both sides on the issue.

"Regardless of how each individual feels here," said Freeborn. "We are elected to represent each one. We feel that this decision is a decision of the Minister of Education, the Board of Education from the French Separate system, and the parents. Council will not pick sides."

Nyman told Council that 354 people who are opposed to the construction of a new French Separate High School within our community signed a petition calling for the stoppage of construction of the school. He said that this number represents close to 35% of the voting population of Chapleau.

Supporters of the new school disputed this number though. They said according to Statistics Canada, there are 2,090 eligible voters and therefore only 17% of the voting population supported the petition. According to Elections Canada, the voter list for Chapleau contains 2,276 names. But when asked by Nyman how many residents supported the school, supporters did not respond.

"Chapleau has always been in a position of somebody wanting to stop some progress," said Former Chapleau Reeve Claire Charron in an address to the current Council. "This is why Chapleau is where it is at today, because we pick these little things that are damaging to the prosperity of our town."

However, the issue is not dead yet. According to Nyman, Ontario Education Critic MPP Jim Flaherty has sent a letter to the current Ontario Minister of Education Gerard Kennedy asking him to review the case. No response has been received yet. Nyman says that Flaherty is considering putting a Provincial Legislative Petition forward in the Ontario Legislature. The petition will then be debated openly in the Legislature. What this means is that Chapleau can look forward to more months of fighting over the issue.

Rates will rise

By: R. Drew Blais

Chapleau ratepayers will face a tax increase this year. At last Monday's Council meeting, the Mayor and Council passed four by-laws to increase the residential tax levy, the commercial tax levy as well as the water, sewer, and refuse collection rates.

The residential tax levy will increase by 3.69% over the 2003 year-end taxation rate. This means that a home valued at $80,000 will face a total increase of $56.65 on the 2004 tax billing when assessment changes are factored in. In addition, there will be a 5.8% increase in rates for water, sewer, and refuse collection. This will amount to an extra $38.27 per year. In all, the total 2004 taxation and user fee increase is $94.92. This may vary slightly from home to home due to different assessment values. The commercial tax levy will rise by 2.55%.

"What has hit us hard," says Councilor Richard Bignucolo, "is insurance, fuel, hydro, and wage increases. There is no extra money from government, so we have to balance our budget and unfortunately we have to raise rates."

Council says it regrets that this action was necessary. In past years, Council has met revenue requirements through property assessment growth and the ability to occupy some of the education tax. Les Jones, municipal treasurer, says that the assessment growth has now leveled off and education taxes have been reduced. And as a result, Council can no longer meet those revenue requirements.

Waterfront hit again

By: R. Drew Blais

Vandals are at it again. Over the last weekend, a light standard located on the municipal beach suffered the wrath of vandals. The top assembly of the light was separated from the main body and left dangling by the electrical wires. Municipal crews inspecting the waterfront found the damaged light. This is not the first incident of vandalism on municipal property this year.

"We are trying to make the town look nice," says Kevin Morris, recreation director for Chapleau. "Vandalism not only takes municipal workers away from doing other jobs like cutting grass and painting, it has a cost to fixing it."

According to Les Jones, municipal treasurer, vandalism costs Chapleau a substantial amount of money each year. These costs of vandalism are not built into municipal budgets. Jones says it has the potential to take away money from other programs and budgets.

The township is fighting back though. Council has accepted an offer from the Chapleau Rotary Club to install a security camera at the waterfront pavilion. Plans are also in the works to put in security cameras around town hall. The Chapleau O.P.P. Detachment is joining the fight as well. It is changing to its summer hours to help combat the mischief at the waterfront and throughout town. The evening shift will now work from 8 p.m. until 6 a.m.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

As a former student of École secondaire catholique Trillium, now studying at Laurentian University, I was pleased to hear that the government had finally allocated money towards the building of a new school. As most of your readers already know, Chapleau High School shares its building with ESC Trillium, the latter renting from the Algoma District School Board, ever since this French school was founded in 1998. Since its foundation, ESC Trillium has tried to get its own building, project which had been put on a waiting list while other townships, such as Blind River, Marathon, and Manitowadge, went ahead to build their own French high schools.

As you can see, Chapleau is not the only place that will and has gotten a separate school for its Francophone students. However, it seems that this decision has not made everybody happy, especially Mr. Mark Nyman. To my surprise last week, I heard on JJAM FM that, once again, he was trying to stop the progress and hard work we have made to finally have a school to call our own. As usual, it seems Mr. Nyman is misinformed. Let me enumerate my experience vs the claims Mr. Nyman is spreading around on the radio.

According to what Mr. Nyman said on JJAM FM, he claims that separating the school would break the great opportunities for sharing cultural, linguistic and religious differences, and so the students would lose the benefits of such a liaison between both schools in the same building. What opportunities? What benefits? I've lived the evolution of the French High School in the last 5 years first hand, since I was amongst the very first students admitted in 1998. I can say, without hesitation, that little or no cultural sharing was done at all : during all joint activities, the main and only language used was English. So not much cultural sharing there.... and what about religious? Our French High School, being a catholic institution, was not even allowed to hang a simple wooden cross on the wall to represent our faith. Furthermore, our school was denied the permission to set up a nativity scene under the school Christmas tree. So not much religious sharing there either.... seeing the pattern yet? Hence, the only sharing of cultural and religious differences was kept to a minimum for the Christmas lunch (where the celebration was bilingual and we had our solemn blessing from our priest), when all other activities such as carnival, the Hallowe'en parties, dances, etc. were uniquely in English! As for joint sports, initially athletes from both sides played in the same teams, until the end of the 2000-2001 school year, when the administration of Chapleau High put an end to the joint sports teams. We had no say in that matter.

In all the time I spent at ESC Trillium, I have these observations about being in the same building as Chapleau High:

- Every year there is a constant jumble of classroom use as each side is trying to juggle an evenly shared building, too small to properly house two schools in the first place, especially with the new curriculum now in place;
- We can't house provincially organized activities at our school, like the Fédération des élèves secondaires franco-ontariens or the student improvisation tournaments, because such activities can interfere with Chapleau High's own projects and schedules;
- Our school is not able to freely use such services as the gym, cafeteria and theatre stage, priority being always given to Chapleau High;
- We are not allowed to freely express our faith;
- Students cannot easily feel at ease to express themselves in French outside of the classrooms because of the English majority;
- And finally, in my views, we can't freely express our cultural pride. As an example, the last time we've tried to celebrate the anniversary of our Franco-Ontarian flag, we were shunned by many students and teachers (and don't forget the time and effort to get our flag floating outside the building! What did Chapleau High have against a simple flag, representing our culture floating outside? Especially when we're supposed to be sharing cultural interests!)

So, as you can see, all is not as well as some people would like you to think about both schools being in the same building. Hence, it is important for all that before making an opinion about this school, you look at both sides of the issue. Here was my side, and you can guess from this what my stand is on the new High School. Thank you for your time and space.

Joseph Gagné
Former student of ESC Trillium

Dear Editor,
I would like to point out a very important fact about one of Paul Martins' recent public statements: "It would have been very easy for me to sweep it under the rug," he said. Referring to the sponsorship scandal. That alone clearly indicates that he thought about it. We as Canadians have to give this statement some hard thought when voting. This is unacceptable! His debate attack on Layton was also uncalled for. (Martin asked Layton if he was told by his advisors to "talk all the time".) Paul Martin, let us decide the debate! That was just rude to throw out an interruption like that. How terrible that this Liberal campaign has been about trying to place fear into people when selecting an alternative to what was an otherwise horrible Liberal government.

Mark Nyman

Dear Editor,

I am writing to you as a parent and as a member of the community in regards to Mark Nyman's letter to the editor dated June 13.

Mr. Nyman states that 340 adult members signed the petition. Then he goes on to say that it represents 1/3 of the voting population. I think that this last statement is misleading and with reason.

According to the 2001 data from Statistics Canada, Chapleau had 2 090 people 20 years and older. That does not include the 18-19 year olds (because they are included in the 15-19 age group) nor the surrounding communities such as Sultan, Devon, Pineal Lake... Now 340 out of 2 090 gives you 16.3% or less than 1/6 of the adult population. That's half of what Mr. Nyman claims. Totally different picture isn't it? If Mr. Nyman can twist information that is as easily verifiable as statistics, what does that say about all the other information or comments he has been putting forward?

Here is another example. Mr. Nyman states "Did you know that the French separate board refused to twin sports." Again, he did not tell the whole story. Three years ago, Chapleau High School decided that each school would have their own sports teams. To the dismay of most affected, the sports teams were separated. Last fall, Chapleau High did ask to have joint sports again and yes the School Board and Trillium did refuse. One of the reasons given was that before the separation of the teams, the participation of the Trillium students was very low. Since then, the participation has more than doubled and the teams are doing very well. The school has teams in : soccer, basketball, volleyball, badminton, golf and hockey. And for the students, Trillium and the school board, that is something that they are proud of. Furthermore, Chapleau has two teams per sport representing them in the region instead of one.

I could go on and on pointing out the misleading statements made by Mr. Nyman in all the letters to the editor and comments on JJAM-FM since the process began three years ago, but that would require quite a few number of pages of your newspaper. All I can say, the construction of this building is not only beneficial to the francophones but to the community as a whole. There is the possibility of having an auditorium within the school. We are not taking anything away, we are not separating the community, we are adding something to it. I hope that people will keep an open mind and welcome with pride this new addition. I understand that not everybody will be in favour of the construction, but I just hope that their decision is based on facts and not on misleading comments (i.e. Our taxes are going to go up.).

In closing, separation and barriers do not occur as a result of mortar and bricks, but because of attitudes and prejudice. Mr. Nyman's behaviour can have much more detrimental consequences to community cooperation than the construction of a new school.

If you have any questions or concerns, make sure you ask the people who know the correct information. Thank you, Mr Editor.

We Salute Our Volunteers!
We thank all of the individuals who have donated an extraordinary amount of time, energy and moral leadership to our school communities. It has been heart-warming to see these role models living their Catholic values as they work with staff to inspire and educate students.

Our volunteers have made great practical contributions, providing leadership, helping out each student grow to his/her potential--spiritually, intellectually, physically, emotionally and morally. The many volunteers in our schools come from all walks of life and are our partners in such things as coaching, driving and chaperoning trips of various kinds, fund-raising, mentoring, working in the library...

The teachers, administrators and staff have also been some of our most loyal volunteers. They have made our schools "magical places" as they enhance and enrich the lives of students and their families beyond the classroom.

All of us at the Huron-Superior Catholic District School Board sincerely thank our employees and individuals throughout the community who have helped us guide our students in their personal growth within the Catholic Faith. Never doubt it. You have made a lasting difference in the lives of these young people.
